NEBRASKA COLLEGE OF TECHNICAL AGRICULTURE

NCTA NEWS
404 East 7th Street
Curtis, NE 69025-9525
Mary Crawford: 308-367-5231
mcrawford@unl.edu

Dec. 18, 2019
By NCTA News

Student leaders at NCTA

CURTIS, Neb. – Aggies who participate in student clubs and campus organizations have a voice in leadership at the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture.

The NCTA Student Senate is comprised of the representatives of the 20 clubs and teams at the agricultural campus, said KayLee Rasmussen of Burwell, Student Senate president.

“Each of the clubs or teams sends a first-year and second-year student to serve on the senate,” said Rasmussen, an animal science major who is secretary of the Aggies Shotgun Sports Team.

The Senate reorganized this fall with officers coordinating projects and campus meetings with their new Senate faculty sponsor Mary Rittenhouse, chair of the Agribusiness Management Systems division.

2019-2020 officers are:
President: KayLee Rasmussen, Burwell, 2nd year representative for Shotgun Sports Team
Vice President: Sarah Campbell, Omaha, 1st year representative for Student Technicians of Veterinary Medicine Association
Secretary: Aileen Reynosa, Lexington, 1st year representative of Safari Club
Treasurer: Nicole Wright, LeRoy, Kansas, 1st year representative for Women in Ag

“I am looking forward to working with these campus leaders this next semester,” said Professor Rittenhouse. “I know they have great ideas going forward for helping students make the best of their individual experiences.”

NCTA Student Senate Officers, left to right, Aileen Reynosa, KayLee Rasmussen, Sarah Campbell and Nicole Wright. (NCTA photo)

Online article: https://go.unl.edu/0mwt - 30 -