

NEBRASKA COLLEGE OF TECHNICAL AGRICULTURE

June 29, 2021
By NCTA News

Future Aggies to enroll July 6

Students intending to enroll for the fall semester at the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture in Curtis will be on campus Tuesday, July 6.

The in-person New Student Enrollment Day will be the second for 2021, said Jennifer McConville, associate dean.

“We had a fabulous NSE on June 8 with more than 70 guests interested in enrolling for the fall semester,” McConville said.

There is great interest again this month from students in Nebraska and several states much further away in distance for traveling to Curtis for in-depth conversations with our faculty, financial aid personnel, team coaches, and to learn about student housing,” McConville added.

Advance appointments are set up through Gaylene Stinman, admission recruiter, by calling 308-367-5267.

Students will meet with an academic advisor, register for classes, pay deposits for student housing, get a student ID photo taken, apply for a parking permit, and gain IT access for student technology needs, and obtain parking permits.

Parents, family members and friends of prospective students are welcome to take tours, learn more about NCTA and to prepare for the Aggie college experience.

The NSE registration is an online form at: <https://nctaunl.wufoo.com/forms/mf99t5u0krx2es/> The NSE registration for July 6 is due by close of business on July 1.

For those unable to attend NSE, contact Stinman to make other arrangements through remote sessions or a later campus visit.

#

Online article: <https://go.unl.edu/sOvu>

Emily Grote of Minnesota, registering a year ago as an Aggie freshman at New Student Enrollment, is welcomed by Gaylene Stinman, admissions recruiter. Grote returns in August for her sophomore year. (NCTA file photo)