

NCTA, Rotary host a German Student's View

Laura Stage of Curtis is an international exchange student from Germany who is spending her year with a Curtis family.

While attending Medicine Valley High School as part of an international exchange through ASSE, Miss Stage is hosted this school year by Glenn and Sara Jackson. Dr. Jackson is on the veterinary technology faculty at the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture.

Laura will present a public forum entitled, "A Look into the Life of a German Student," at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 25 at NCTA's Nebraska Agriculture Industry Education Center.

The program is hosted by Rotary of Curtis with the NCTA Diversity Committee, said Judy Bowmaster-Cole, committee chairman.

Additional information is available from Bowmaster-Cole at jbowmaster2@unl.edu or call 308-367-5282.

The ASSE International Student Exchange Program features participating students and host families in 35 countries. Dr. Jackson said additional information is available at the group's web site, <http://asse.com>.
