CURTIS, Neb. - NCTA Aggie Rodeo teams competed April 5-6 at Brookings, South Dakota, in Great Plains Region competition of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

Athletes from the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture in Curtis were led by Quentin Anderson of Pierce, Nebraska as he won the long round of calf roping with a time of 11.7 seconds.

“We competed well at Brookings and next travel to the other side of South Dakota,” said Coach Taylor Rossenbach.

Aggie team members traveling this week are:

Quentin Anderson, Pierce
Trey Baum, Elgin
Jebb Ginkens, Harrison
Maddie Schnase, Lincoln
Kody Daily, Auburn
Shelby Dismuke, Pine, Colorado
Alex Penna, Holley, New York

Aggie Rodeo travels to Black Hills State University in Spearfish for the Yellow Jacket Stampede. The winter storm has postponed rodeo action at Spearfish to April 19-20.
